

CHAS and other Safety Accreditations

TL Safety can provide assistance with safety accreditations such as CHAS, SMAS, SAFEcontractor, acclaim and most other accreditation applications. We can prepare all your documentation such as risk assessments, method statements, COSHH assessments, health and safety policy and arrangements and sub contractor assessment and control etc. Or we can review and update your own documentation to ensure that it is compliant.

We will give you a fixed price quotation and assist you all the way until you receive your accreditation. We will help you to complete your application and where possible submit it for you. The cost of every application varies and we try to take the most cost effective route. The more suitable and sufficient documentation that you already have in place means that we have less work to carry out and therefore costs are reduced dramatically. We will keep you informed every step of the way.

For TL Safety, safety accreditations are not just about gaining an accreditation so you can be accepted as a supplier and tender for works that you could not do previously. It's about ensuring you are compliant, maintaining a safe working environment and gaining that competitive edge. We therefore write our systems around the way that you carry out your business and ensure that you can use the system effectively. We can talk through many issues over the telephone but where practical one of our consultants will meet up with you to discuss your requirements, gain further information about your business and the way that you operate so we can reflect this in your safety documentation.

Health and Safety Advisor – Retainer Services

We also can act as your health and safety advisors if you want us to. Ask about our retainer services which includes telephone support, health and safety advice, legislative updates, newsletters and assistance with PQQ's and tenders. Our costs are a fraction of the cost of employing a full time health and safety manager. At any time we can assist you with your ongoing site specific documentation through our retainer services or if you prefer on an ad-hoc basis. There are distinct advantages of having a retainer service with us. We also have a special online document creation and recording system called "Safety First" which you should ask us about and is detailed below.

Safety First Health and Safety Package

We encourage you to prepare your own risk assessments and method statements once we have put your systems in place. No-one knows your business better than you. Of course, we will do this for you if you wanted us to but part of creating a safe working system is knowing the hazards involved in your work, identifying risks and ways of controlling them. When it comes to writing the method statement you and your workforce will have a better understanding of how the work is to be carried out. So why not carry out most of your site specific documentation yourself and just use us for the more technical and detailed risk management.

We have an online system with templates for risk assessments, method statements, COSHH assessments and other safety documents. You can also record accidents on the system, retain records of your plant and equipment and input training records and set reminders about training and competence expiries.

Go back to our home page at www.tlsafety.co.uk and click on the online safety management system icon and read more.....